A CALL TO ARMS.

Eighth Regiment of the National Guard Had Uneasy Time Saturday Night.

STONES FIRED FROM AMBUSH

There Were Three Disturbances and the Last Was Such as to Call the Entire Regiment Out.

ONE SUSPECT WAS CAPTURED

SHENANDOAH, August 4.—The entire Eighth regiment was called to arms during Saturday night as a result of three attacks made by a band of men in ambush who threw stones at the troops now in camp on the plateau outside the town. These attacks are becoming so frequent that Brigadier General Gobin has decided to adopt stern measures to end them. Hereafter a double guard, supplied with ball cartridges, will surround the camp and the sentries have been instructed that if Saturday night's stone throwing is repeated they must shoot to kill and investigate afterwards.

One of the attacking party, a Lithunian, named Wm. Stoponitz, is under arrest and is confined in the guard tent, and the provost marshal is on the trail of others. It is not known how many were in the crowd, but the officers of the Eighth regiment believe the number to be more than a dozen.

The first attack, according to Col. T. F. Hoffman, was made at 10:45 o'clock Saturday night. Private Payne, of Co. I, on sentry duty, saw a party of men on the Mahanoy City road, which separates the camp of the Eighth regiment from the Twelfth. He commanded the men to halt and called the corporal of the guard but before the latter could respond a shower of stones and rocks were thrown at the sentry. One rock struck him on the chest, knocking him down and causing his gun to fall from his hands. He immediately jumped up and fired several shots in the air. As he did so the men ran down the road and were pursued by several soldiers. The outpost which had been stationed some distance from the camp heard the shot and one of the pickets captured Stoponitz as he came running down the road.

The shooting aroused the whole camp and the Eighth regiment was put under arms and companies B, E and K were immediately thrown out in skirmish lines. They beat the underbrush and laurel, which is five or six feet high, all around the camp, but they could find no one. The regiment was then called to quarters and fifteen minutes later another shower of stones was thrown at the stable guard, which is located south of the Eighth regiment. The guard turned out and three men were seen running along the road in the opposite direction from where the outpost was stationed. The strangers were not pursued.

Shortly after 3 o'clock Sunday morning the third and last attack was made and it was of such a nature that the bugler under orders from Col. Hoffman sounded the whole regiment to arms. This time the stable guard was again the object of the mysterious attack. Stones in volleys were thrown at the guard and at the sentries nearby. On account of the laurel, underbrush and the darkness the soldiers could not see the offenders. However, the sentries fired about a dozen shots into the bushes but no one was hit. Some of the bullets went whistling over the tents of the sleeping soldiers of the Twelfth regiment across the road.

The noise of the firing and the bugle call to arms stirred up the Twelfth regiment and the Governor's troop of cavalry, which is located close to the Eighth regiment. Col. Clement, of the Twelfth regiment, sent out detachments to investigate the trouble, as did Capt. Ott, in command of the cavalry. The Eighth regiment, Col. Hoffman said, was under arms and ready for action in three minutes. Another thorough investigation was made without result and then the command, after standing in formation for 30 minutes, was called to quarters and not again disturbed.

Colonel Hoffman made a full report to Brigadier General Gobin, who came to camp during the forenoon to make a full investigation. He put Stoponitz through a searching examination. The prisoner said there were only four men in the party. He gave the name of one of them as Michael Lavotic and said he did not know who the others were. While under examination he made several contradictory statements. General Gobin says that he will turn Stoponitz over to the civil authorities today. He will be placed in Pottsville jail.

NEWSPAPER LAWS.

Some Rules that it Would be Well for Subscribers to Understand.

The following rules are laid down by the Government for the protection of newspapers:

Subscribers, who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered as wishing to continue their subscription.

If subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodicals, the publishers may continue to send until all arrearages are paid.

If subscribers move to other places without informing publishers, and papers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.

The courts have decided that refusing to take periodicals from the office before removing, and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice to the publisher at the end of that time, if they do not wish to continue taking it, otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it on, and the subscriber will be responsible until an express notice, with payment of all arrears, is sent to the publisher.

It is a dangerous trick for a man to allow his subscription account to run on from year to year unpaid, and tell the postmaster to mark "refused," or to send the editor a notice to discontinue the paper.

A Lock Haven Girl Decamps With Unknown Man.

The Philadelphia Inquirer Saturday publishes the arrest of Arthur B. Jack in that city Friday. Jack is a dapper young man and claims to be a hero of two wars. Several weeks ago he fell in with A. A. Jackson, of that city, to whom he represented that he had inherited $162,000 from a relative's estate, and that as soon as he would get his money he intended starting a carpet mill. Jackson was inclined that way himself, and the two men agreed to form a partnership, each to put up $20,000. Jack, however represented that a guardian in Cleveland had charge of his money, and that he would have to go to that city to lay his plans before the guardian in order to gain his consent. He borrowed different sums aggregating $435 from Jackson. On Monday Jack left for Cleveland, but just before he started he borrowed another twenty-five dollars.

On the way to Cleveland Jack became acquainted with a young woman who was a passenger on the train. She was going to her home in Lock Haven from this city. Jack, according to the evidence against him, also told the young woman of his supposed wealth, and induced her to accompany him to Cleveland, where he, it is claimed, pawned her gold watch. In Cleveland he spent all the money he had. He was finally arrested in that city, was taken back to Philadelphia, where Friday he was held for trial at court.

How Some Towns Watch the Town Council.

The citizens of Freeland, Penn., are not so long suffering as are those of Bellefonte, for in that town a mass meeting of the citizens was held on Saturday evening, which was addressed by the most prominent men of the place, and resolutions adopted, denouncing the profligacy and multiplication of expenses created by the Town Council. Now in Bellefonte it is different. The taxpayers are willing to pay everything that is asked without question. As a result our borough is hopelessly in debt, and instead of this indebtedness being diminished it is increased at every meeting. Is it not time something is being done, and not confine it altogether to newspaper talk? We have financiers in the Council who, if they had half a chance, would bankrupt the steel trust, and still the citizens who pay the piper enter no protest.

Drowning at Beech Creek.

Floyd Swartz, the 6-year-old son of Marion Swartz, of Beech Creek, fell in the creek above that place Saturday afternoon. No one saw him tumble into the stream. A search was made for him, and the creek was dragged. The body was found about 300 yards from where the child fell in.

After the body was taken out efforts were made to resuscitate the child, but he was past all help. The body was then taken to the parents home.

—Williamsport had a $12,000 fire Saturday. Michael Lehman's planing mill, Mankey's decorative works and Coryell's flint paper company's works were destroyed.

—The REPUBLICAN and New York Weekly Tribune one year for $1.25.

A HOLLOW TRUCE.

The Military Alone Prevents Outbreaks Occuring in Town of Shenandoah.

GENERAL GOBIN KEPT BUSY

Arrest of Two Wounded Foreigners and the Subsequent Hearings Caused Big Crowds to Form.

THREE SOLDIERS HAVE TROUBLE

SHENANDOAH, August 6.—The peace of this troop-protected town remains unbroken. The unsettled feeling which has been apparent for the last few days, however, continues. It was a lively day at brigade headquarters, where all the staff officers were kept busy in connection with the movements of the troops and in keeping in touch with the situation in the entire county. There were many rumors of trouble, but excepting at Girardville, where a workman was shot and slightly injured, nothing of a serious nature occurred anywhere.

Brigadier General Gobin was unusually alert, however, and kept soldiers in readiness for instant use all day long. Many stories of threatened trouble reached him, but he was able in every instance to run them down without sending out a detail of men. Officers around headquarters feel that the tension is high and would not be surprised if the troops now in camp here were not sent to the surrounding region. General Gobin says he will not send for additional men until there is need for them. It is not unlikely, however, that a battery and another troop of cavalry will be in the field by the end of the week.

Probably the most important development in the Shenandoah region yesterday was the arrest and commitment to the county jail of two wounded Lithuanians, who participated in the riot of last week. Their arrest was attended with a considerable show of military force, they being taken into custody of constables who were surrounded by a platoon of infantrymen and were taken through the streets under a strong guard. The prisoners are Antony Klimovitz and Stanislaus Zukowski. Each had been shot in the foot during the riot and was unable to walk. They were located in boarding houses in the heart of the foreign quarters of the town.

THE KING RETURNS TO LONDON

LONDON, Aug. 6.—All preparations have been completed for the return of King Edward to London today. The Victoria Station has been brilliantly decorated. It is expected that his Majesty's return to the capital will be marked by a great street demonstration en route to Buckingham Palace.

The trip to London will be made on a royal special train, but there will be no invalid chair or other special arrangements, as it is felt that his Majesty is fully equal to the fatigue of the journey.

According to all authoritative reports, the King is making an excellent recovery, and it is considered unlikely that his physicians would allow him to endure the fatigue of the coronation ceremony if it were in the least unwise.

The emphatic denials of the sinister rumors of King Edward's condition are confirmed by all persons who have recently visited his Majesty.

GIVING PUBLIC A CHANCE

The King will land at Portsmouth and entrain for London at half-past three o'clock this afternoon, and his train is due to arrive in London at half-past five. His drive to Buckingham Palace will be by an extended route instead of the direct way, in order that the public may have an opportunity to see and congratulate the sovereign.

The King has commanded that coronation day and the anniversary of his coronation be observed as collar day, a day of ceremony at the English court, when the courtiers wear the collars of their orders.

REHEARSING THE CEREMONY

The rehearsal of the coronation ceremony in Westminster Abbey yesterday afternoon was the most largely attended and elaborate one which has yet been held. The King and the Queen and other very important personages, who were not present, were represented at the proceedings by substitutes.

Colonel Brocklehurst, equerry to her Majesty, impersonated King Edward, and Lady Suffield, one of the ladies of the bedchamber, took the part of the Queen. Even the servants were drilled in their duties connected with the robing arrangements and the pages carried out, theoretically, their functions of coronet carrying and train bearing.

Little Girl's Red Dress Slows up Buffalo Flyer.

The red dress worn by a little Renovo girl caused the eastbound Buffalo flyer to slow up at North Bend Friday afternoon, the engineer thinking when he saw the bright red color ahead of him that it was the danger signal. The little girl wearing the flaming colored dress was the granddaughter of H. T. Weight and she had attended the Renovo Methodist picnic. The News says Mr. Weight, who is interested in a new system of interlocking switch which is being used at North Bend, was making notes of it and had his granddaughter Verta, who wore a red dress, with him. As the Buffalo flyer from the east came along the faithful engineer whose eye is always upon the rail caught sight of the little one and mistaking it for a danger signal slowed up until he came near enough to distinguish what it was and passed on feeling assured that there was no danger.

The Hospital Benefit.

Remember, this Thursday evening is the time set for holding the Fancy Dress Masquerade Ball, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to the new hospital. All arrangements are now completed and it only remains with our citizens whether it will be a financial success or not. The price of admittance will be fifty cents, which will entitle the holder of the ticket to either go in fancy costume or as a spectator.

To those who simply go to look on we promise an entertaining time, as there will be costumes of every variety, from Cleopatra down to the demure Quaker maiden, and from Julius Caesar to the innocent little school boy of the present age.

Stopper & Fiske's celebrated orchestra of Williamsport will be there and furnish the music. We make a last appeal for this worthy object.

Take the Children a Drive.

Grant Hoover did a handsome thing Tuesday evening by taking a carriage load of children for a drive, there were seven in the vehicle, and a happier lot of little girls could not be found. It occurred to us that if others who have horses and carriages would occasionally do the same, it might brighten the lives of many who do not enjoy the delight of riding behind horses and who look with pardonable envy on those who are more highly favored.

To those who keep horses, let us ask you to think on the subject and then make up your minds to contribute to the happiness of Gods poor, and we know you will experience more pleasure in seeing your carriage go by loaded with the poor little children than if you were in it yourself.

Try it, if only for once.

Married at a Picnic.

At the Sunbury business men's picnic Friday one of the chief attractions was a public wedding in which Miss Mary Ida End, of Sunbury, and Abner Scholl, of Lewisburg, were the chief actors. The bride was attended by Misses Sue Rowe and Rae McManaway, of Sunbury, as bridesmaids; Miss Maud Golder, a half-sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The groomsmen were James Garman and Otto Burgess of Sunbury.

The marriage ceremony was performed on a raised platform by the Rev. G. W. Marquardt, assisted by the Rev. O. G. Morton. The bride wore a gown of white organdie and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The bridesmaids were attired in blue and lavender silk pongee.

A wedding dinner was served in the dining tent on the grounds.

Accident at Howard.

A young man by the name of Gabel employed by the Jenkins Iron and Tool Co., near Howard met with a serious accident Wednesday afternoon. He was working on the rolls making half inch iron when one of the red hot rods penetrated the calf of his leg, in order to remove it he grasped it with his hands burning them in a terrible manner. A physician was summoned who gave his wounds attention and had him sent to the Lock Haven Hospital.

His Sister's Keeper

By

Elizabeth Dyke Lewis

Copyright, 1901, by E. D. Lewis

She was only the third lady in the cast of the comic opera, but her voice was improving, and she had youth and a good figure to give her hopes of advancement. She entered into her part with an enthusiasm which overlooked the drafty wings and even the chilly barrenness of her own dressing room. She hated her lodgings in the French quarter in West Twenty-fifth street and always longed to get back to the theater.

She was sitting in her dressing room on Wednesday afternoon, ready for the matinee, which was to begin in ten minutes, when the callboy came to the door.

"Why, surely my watch isn't wrong!" she exclaimed, for she was not needed until half past 2. No; only the manager wanted to speak to her. The manager often wanted to speak to her. She came cheerfully forward to see what he wanted. He was standing in his shirt sleeves giving the gas man a dressing about some lights which had ruined the star's costume the night before, but he left his speech in the middle and came to meet her, laying his hand familiarly on her shoulder. He was a big man and rather ugly, but even the chorus girls confessed that he had a way with him. The little singer felt it, too, for she let herself be drawn into the office, and the door shut behind her. Then she gave a fillip to her short skirts and perched on the table.

The manager cleared his throat and went to the point.

"You see, Miss Kennedy," he began. "I've been wanting to give you a lift for some time. I can't bounce Miss Gray, of course. She's been on a good while and is used to it. But after this run I do want you to have something better. Now, here's a thing called 'Liberty Belle' that's bound to make a hit some time, and if you like you can take the score home and try Fair Helen's part on your piano. It was simply made for you." He turned the leaves rapidly, showing her the size of the part and a few of the situations and humming a couple of the songs, while his plump forefinger followed the score. "Now," he said, checking off the points on his finger, "here's the scheme in brief: You're Fair Helen, Stevens is the Duke's son, and I'm your manager, and we go off on the road—Pittsburg, you know, and Cincinnati, and perhaps Chicago if it's all right. And now, before you say anything, I want it to be quite understood that the point of the whole thing, to me at least, is that I'm your manager—see? And now, Miss Kennedy, I'm going to make myself believe that you'll think it over the right way. And I guess it's about time for us both to be on the outside of that door, isn't it?"

He opened the door and let her out ahead of him, and she ran into the wings and talked to the chorus girls till her cue came. She joined absently in their laughter at her own jokes, and all the time she was thinking over the manager's proposal.

It sounded very attractive. She knew that she would stand a better chance of real promotion if she held her position in a good "stock." Yet the idea of a star part and presumably higher salary was alluring in the extreme.

She abandoned her reflections as the time came for her to lead the chorus out and to dance while they echoed responses to her song.

"But that I never do!" her song concluded as she brought both feet together with a martial click and salute.

"Ah! That we never do!" echoed the chorus, and then she had to come farther down and do the last verse over again. She could see over the footlights and even distinguish faces in the first three or four rows of the orchestra. The front row was nearly filled by a party of schoolgirls, with their chaperon, but at the end was a man, who was strangely out of place in that matinee assemblage. She looked beyond him to the old ladies behind and then to the lines of heads in the galleries, but presently she found her glance coming back to him. For a few moments she was tantalized, and then she suddenly remembered where she had met him. It was in quite another life. He could hardly afford to recognize her even if he remembered her, she thought bitterly, and just then his face lighted up, and he stared at her and bowed and smiled in the most friendly way, though he seemed a little uncertain of her returning the salutation. She found a way to do so, however, and when she gave the last whirl to her skirts and ran off she knew that he would take her final bow as meant for him.

She joined the others for a chat in the wings till the end of the act, and when she went to her dressing room she found two fine bouquets of Jack's waiting for her. She looked for the cards. Her first bunch was from a man to whom she had sent a box. He was doubtless there—with his wife and children. She must remember to look when she went on again. But the second! She opened her eyes. He had not only spoken to her; he had sent her flowers! Did it mean that there were others in this world who would take her back again still? The manager and his melodramatic adoration seemed suddenly as far away from her as they would have been a year before. She remembered having read a newspaper clipping which had suggested higher than this for her. "Miss Kennedy's abilities," it had said, "are rather above her voice, and it would not be amiss for her to see what she could do in legitimate comedy." Indeed she had been thinking seriously of leaving the operatic stage at the close of the present engagement, perhaps for the drama, perhaps for no stage at all. Who could tell? She lifted the flowers and impulsively hurried off to the manager's room.

"I have come," she said, afraid to stop for breath, lest her resolutions should change, "to refuse your very kind offer, for reasons which I cannot explain, and to return you the books."

She thrust score and libretto into his hands. He stared at her astonished.

"Why, Miss Clara," he exclaimed, "you will at least take till tomorrow to think it over. You will at least try the score. You cannot refuse me—surely you"—

"No," she said firmly, for she would have no more words with this man than she could help. "I am sorry if I disappointed you—sorry if I gave you to understand—but this is final, and I must go! There is my call," she added hastily as she heard the song out on the stage drawing to an end. Then she ran out and stood for an instant in the wings.

"I may repent it afterward," she said to herself, "but I won't if I can help it. It was real nice of him sending me those flowers. I am glad, though, that he'll never know how much they happened to mean to me. He'd think it was too silly! I shan't dare to look at him again."

The star brushed past her with a kind jest and a laugh, and she went on, crying to meet a Strephon in blue satin, who vainly endeavored to wipe away her tears. She was too much occupied with her business to have a fair look at the front seats. After a few explanatory sobs on her part Strephon, with histrionic intuition, seemed to grasp the situation, and they advanced to the footlights together, joining in a duet. The air was familiar to every street boy now, and unless she gave it her entire attention each person in the audience would think that he had heard it better done. She dared not glance even once spot toward which she was half consciously acting all the time, but when she ran out for the last time she thought that a certain lifting of her eyelashes and a saucy shrug of one shoulder just as she kissed her hand in that same direction would be accepted as reparation for her apparently cold treatment. She almost fancied a gleam of gratitude as warm as her own coming toward her from the golden haze of the footlights on the end.

* * * * * * *

That seat, had she but seen it, was empty. It had been empty since the first scene. The man in a box of the upper tier scarcely remembered that he knew one of the girls on the cast. He was engrossed for the present in quite a different sort of young woman—the one for whom he had brought some flowers and whom he had been able to find only after the second act. She was sitting a little behind the rest of her party, and as he leaned over her chair she bent her head back until it almost touched his arm and laughed softly into his eyes at something he had said. There was a charming understanding between them. They had both forgotten that there was any one on the stage.

Some Historical Windows.

In history and literature the window holds a conspicuous place. There is the window in Leven Castle tower through which the wistful eyes of Mary, queen of Scots, strained their gaze across the lonely lake; there is the window in Greenwich palace from which Elizabeth waved her farewells to her brave seamen as they set forth in their tiny "cockboats" to seek a westward path to far Cathay.

There is the window in the tower through which the aged Laud stretched his hands in benediction as Strafford passed onward to his death; there is the window "in Carlsbrook's narrow case," which baffled the unfortunate Charles in his attempt to escape; there is the window in the Louvre from which that other and guiltier Charles witnessed the massacre of St. Bartholomew.

Then there is the window in the narrow Linlithgow street from which Bothwellnaugh shot "the good Earl of Murray," and the window in the High street of Edinburgh whence Argyll watched the chivalrous Montrose borne onward to his scaffold, with never a thought or forecast of what his own fate would be.—London Standard.

A Really Poor Author.

When Dr. Johnson was a resident of Grub street, he made the acquaintance of a poet named Samuel Boyse, whose poem on the Deity and other works had earned him high praise. Boyse could not go abroad to seek work because his clothes were in pawn, so he lay abed with his arms thrust through two holes in the insective blanket which was the only covering, writing and starving. Johnson raised enough money to get his clothes for him, but two days later Boyse was in bed again, eating a stew of beef and mushrooms purchased by the repawning of his suit. "I might as well eat while I may," he said, "for I must some day starve, whether I will or not."

The Use of Bread on Water.

A loaf of bread is a favorite talisman for locating a drowned body in most European countries. Sometimes it is found sufficient of itself, sometimes it needs the aid of some other substance. Thus in England the loaf is usually weighted with quicksilver.—Notes and Queries.

BEARDS AND GLASSES.

Two Ornaments That Are Rarely Found Upon Hotel Waiters.

"Ever see a waiter wearing glasses?" demanded the inquisitor.

No one could remember, although just why a waiter should not be seen with glasses as well as any other man was not apparent.

"It's just like the wearing of beards," went on the inquisitor. "The proprietors of our important hotels, restaurants and cafes will not permit either beards or glasses to be worn by their waiters. It is possible that in some old fashioned family or commercial hotel the servitors may be found with their noses straddled by optical helps, but you won't find 'em along Broadway.

"Now, this is a fact worthy of note because in every other calling in life the number of persons wearing glasses is on the increase, and even in our schools a considerable percentage of very small children will be found wearing glasses, and while, as I say, hotel, restaurant and cafe proprietors are opposed to the glasses, still I have seldom found a waiter whose eyes indicated that he was in the slightest need of them.

"You may argue that restaurant waiters are generally young men. Grant you that instantly, but all the same thousands of men of similar age have to wear them in almost every other occupation.

"The majority of those servitors commence in boyhood, and the demand of their vocation causes no strain on the eyesight. Consequently that may account in a measure for the absence of any necessity for the use of specs. Moreover, the steam from hot viands would render them useless probably."—New York Telegram.

His Best Role.

They were discussing the amateur theatricals of the previous evening, and Thespis was bewailing the hard luck that had brought on a violent headache and, prevented his appearance.

"Do you know, old boy," he said confidentially, "that was to have been the effort of my life. I had the love scene down fine, and Mildred's heart must have been of stone if she failed to see that I was in earnest. I was willing to stake everything on the result, for I was confident she would accept me the moment the curtain went down. And to think that my usual hard luck would step in just when all my hopes were about to be realized!"

"I heard Mildred refer to your non-appearance," remarked Fayer.

"You did? And what did she say?"

"Said you performed an act of charity by not coming on."

It Puzzled Him.

It is said of a former Marquis of Townshend that when young and engaged in battle he saw a drummer at his side killed by a cannon ball which scattered his brains in every direction. His eyes were at once fixed on the ghastly object, which seemed to engross his thoughts. A superior officer observing him supposed he was intimidated at the sight and addressed him in a manner to cheer his spirits. "Oh!" said the young marquis, with calmness, but severity. "I am not frightened. I am puzzled to make out how any man with such a quantity of brains ever came to be here!"

Too True to Be Profitable.

"How about that historical novel?" asked the publisher.

"No good at all," answered the reader to whom it had been assigned. "The man doesn't understand how to write historical novels, and he hasn't perverted the truth as we know it enough to make any kind of a rumpus among the critics. His book would fall flat."—Chicago Post.

Two Babies For a Cent.

A novel poster was seen by a recent sojourner in Nova Scotia. It was printed on rough paper with red paint, in a childish hand, and was tacked to a telegraph pole in a conspicuous position: "There will be a concert and fair in Mrs. Parson's sitting room today at 2 o'clock sharp. Admission—adults, 5 cents; children, 2 cents; babies, two for a cent."

Slitting Tree Bark.

When a young fruit or shade tree stops growing and looks as if it were about to give up the struggle for existence, the trouble may often be traced to its being barkbound. In this case a long perpendicular slit in the bark will enable it to resume its natural growth.

A Simple Matter.

"John, I'd like you to wake me at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning. I want to catch the early train."

"All right, sir; all right," replied the able servitor expressively; "all you got to do, sir, is to ring."—Philadelphia North American.

A Bright Student.

Among the reminiscences of the class of '02 at Yale is the story of a stout and healthy looking member who was told by his tutor that "he was better fed than taught." "You teach me. I feed myself," was the retort.

HARDY SUWAROFF.

Peculiarities of One of Russia's Great Military Commanders.

Suwaroff, Russia's great military commander, was a little man, insignificant in everything but that intangible power of mind and character with which physical strength is never to be compared. He had been sickly in his youth, but became hardy under the stimulus of cold bathing and the benefits of a plain diet. Buckets of cold water were thrown over him in the morning, and his table was served with fare which guests would fain have refused, but dared not lest he should think them effeminate. He despised dress and delighted in drilling his men in shirt sleeves, sometimes with his stockings literally "down at the heel."

But his hardihood of life and action had its effect on the men he commanded. He was often up and about by midnight and would salute the first soldier whom he saw moving with a piercing cockcrow in commendation of his early rising. During the first Polish war he had given orders for an attack at cockcrow, and a spy in the camp carried the news to the enemy. The attack, however, really took place at 9 o'clock in the evening, when the arrangement had been made, for Suwaroff, suspecting treachery, had then turned out his troops by his well known crowing. The enemy, expecting the event in the morning, were entirely unprepared and fell easy victims to his forethought.

"Tomorrow morning," said he to his troops on the evening before the storming of Ismail, "an hour before daybreak I mean to get up. I shall wash and dress myself, say my prayers, give one good cockcrow and then capture Ismail."

Curious Translation Errors.

Some amusing errors are made by translators. An Italian paper turned Kipling's "Absentminded Beggar" into a "Distracted Mendicant." Another Italian editor who translated a passage from an English paper about a man who had killed his wife with a poker added an ingenious footnote to say, "We do not know with certainty whether this thing 'pokero' be a domestic or surgical instrument." The desperate expedient of the French translator of Cooper's "Spy," who had to explain how a horse could be hitched "to a locust," is worth recalling. He had never heard of locust trees and rendered the word by "sauterelle," or grasshopper. Feeling that this needed some explanation, he appended a footnote explaining that grasshoppers grew to a gigantic size in the United States and that it was the custom to place a stuffed specimen at the door of every mansion for the convenience of visitors, who hitched their horses to it.

The Bluejay.

One may pet or patronize, according to one's nature, a chipping sparrow, bluebird or phœbe, but he is indeed well coated with self esteem who does not feel a sense of inferiority in the presence of a jay. He is such a shrewd, independent and aggressive creature that one is inevitably led to the belief that he is more of a success as a bird than most men are as men. Conspicuous by voice and action during the fall and winter, when other birds are quietest, he becomes silent when other birds are most vocal. If he has a love song, it is reserved for the ear of his mate. At this season he even controls his fondness for owl baiting and with it his vituperative gifts. The robin, the catbird and the thrasher seem eager to betray the location of their nests to every passerby, but the bluejay gives no evidence of the site of his habitation by being seen in its vicinity.—Frank M. Chapman in Century.

A Precocious Diplomatist.

Boy—Oh, mamma, I upset the saltcellar over my clean clothes.

Mamma—That was careless. Go and brush the salt off, and see you don't soil the clothes.

"But, mamma, when any one spills salt they have a quarrel, don't they?"

"So they say."

"Well, then, if they don't spill the salt they don't have a quarrel. Isn't that so?"

"Yes, that is so. But why do you ask?"

"Well, because, mamma, it wasn't the salt I spilt; it was the ink."

Zeal and Knowledge.

The Outlook crowds an unusual amount of practical wisdom and good sense into the following paragraph: "Zeal without knowledge, often condemned, is more valuable than knowledge without zeal, often commended, for zeal without knowledge inspires life, and life acquires knowledge; but knowledge without zeal sits in its study, plays with its books and does nothing. All the greatest things in life have been accomplished by enthusiasts whose zeal was greater than their knowledge."

A Business Head.

"You lent him the money to buy that mule from you?"

"Yassir," answered Mr. Erastus Pinkley. "It doesn't look like business, but it were sech a good chance to get de bes' of de trade dat I couldn' he'p advancin' de cash."—Washington Star.

Spiteful.

"Yes," said the engaged girl, "Dick is very methodical. He gives me one kiss when he comes and two when he goes away."

"That's always been his way," returned her dearest friend. "I've heard lots of girls comment on it."

Thus it happens that they cease to speak to each other.

VOLCANIC REGIONS.

The Five Active Groups of the Western Hemisphere.

The active volcanic groups of the western hemisphere occur in five widely separated regions:

First.—The Andean group of volcanoes of the equatorial region of western South America.

Second.—The chain of some twenty-five great cinder cones which stretch east and west across the south end of the Mexican plateau.

Third.—The Central American group, with its thirty-one active craters, extending diagonally across the western ends of the east and west folds of the Caribbean corrugations, fringing the Pacific side of Guatemala, San Salvador and Costa Rica. This is separated from the Mexican group on the north by a large nonvolcanic area, the isthmus of Tehuantepec, and on the south from the Andean volcanoes by the isthmus of Panama, where no active volcanoes are found.

Fourth.—The chain of volcanoes of the Windward islands, marking the eastern gate of the Caribbean sea, standing in a line directly across the eastern termini of the Caribbean mountains, trending east and west and parallel to the Central American group similarly situated at the western termini.

Fifth.—The volcanoes of Alaska and the Aleutian islands.—Professor Robert T. Hill in Century.

Circumlocution.

A young Yorkshire collier, anxious to pop the question to a girl whom he honestly admired, but not having the courage to ask her straight out, adopted a method of sounding her which romantic people will be inclined to think rather too practical.

"Jessie, my lass," he said nervously, "Ah've insured my life."

"Has ta, lad?" said the damsel indifferently.

"Aye, an' Ah'm thinkin' Ah'm a fool for doin' it."

"How's ta mak that art?"

"Why, supposin' Ah get killed in t' pit, where does ta think t' money'll go?"

"Why, to thy feyther, for sure."

"True enough, an' it ain't fair. It ought to be paid to my wife."

"To thy wife! Why, tha hasn't got one, Bill."

"That's just it," cried Bill in a burst of confidence. "Tha're a nice lass, Jessie, an' Ah want thee to have that money."

"Why couldn't ta say so at fust?" cried Jessie joyfully.

Then the happy couple embraced and trotted off to break the news to Jessie's mother.—Pearson's.

Went Him One Better.

A well known Glasgow divine related the following anecdote, showing that the ready wit of a countryman was more than a match for him:

He was going to the country for his holidays and was in a railway train when a young man entered. In a short time the two commenced a conversation, in the course of which the clergyman asked the youth what he worked at.

"I am a coupler, sir," was the reply.

"A coupler! So am I," replied the clergyman with a laugh.

The youth looked at him for a minute or so, then burst into a fit of laughter and said: "Oh, I see; ye'r a meenister. Ye marry folks. But I gang farther than ye dae. I baith couple and uncouple."

The clergyman laughed heartily and acknowledged that the youth had the better of the sally.

A Final Decision.

It was while Judge Celora E. Martin was on the New York supreme court bench that a self important young lawyer was arguing a motion before him. Tiring of the attorney's grandiloquence, Justice Martin interrupted him and started to render an adverse decision.

"But your honor does not understand the case," still urged the attorney, who saw that things were not coming his way. "Permit me to explain the law. I have here some of the latest decisions of the court of appeals, in which it is held"—

"Motion is denied, with costs," again interrupted the justice. "Have you any later decision than that?"—New York Times.

Provoking a Husband.

A Mohammedan woman cannot of herself separate from her husband without his consent. He may divorce her with a few words spoken by himself. If she is clever, however, she will take him by surprise at an unguarded moment and contrive to do or say something which will make him so angry that before he can exercise sufficient self control to stop himself he has uttered the wished for words.

He Whistled.

Old Lady (to grocer's boy)—Don't you know that it is very rude to whistle when dealing with a lady?

Boy—That's what the guv'nor told me to do, mum.

Ancient Gold.

In olden times gold was obtained abundantly from the rivers of Asia. The sands of Pactolus, the golden fleece secured by the Argonauts, the yellow metal of Ophir, the fable of King Midas, all illustrate the eastern origin of gold. Alexander the Great brought nearly $500,000,000 of gold from Persia. Gold also came from Arabia and from the middle of Africa by way of the Nile. But all of these famous sources of supply were long ago exhausted.

POSITION IN SLEEP.

Night Habits That Assert Their Dominion Over All Mankind.

There are few persons who can tell offhand just what positions they assume to invite sleep, and yet there is not an individual in the world who has not some trick of distributing limbs and trunk to insure slumber's blissful spell which he practices unconsciously. This is a night habit as perpetual and immutable under normal conditions as the succession of the seasons. No sooner are we really off to the land of nod than the night habit asserts its dominion. Our hands and arms seek the same parts of the bed or the same portions of our bodies upon which they have nightly rested since infancy. Our feet and legs stretch at the same angles or loosely intwine in comfortable relaxation, as commanded by unconscious will.

It is seldom of our own deliberate volition that we place our bodies in position for sleep, as you will find tonight on going to bed if you remember these words. In truth, if you do not seek to combat the instincts you will be surprised at the dispositions of the various members involuntarily made. If you endeavor to sleep by a new arrangement of the body, you will also be surprised by the revolt against slumber which will surely ensue, but even before the struggle is well begun you will probably surrender and permit the all masterful night habit to reinstate those little details of position which long practice has made necessary to your comfort.—Family Doctor.

Things Borrowed.

Along with the habit to pronounce people's names correctly, to reply promptly to notes and the like another mark of the regard for the rights of others which indicates inherent refinement is the practice of returning borrowed articles. In cities and large communities there is comparatively little of the kitchen borrowing that has come to be proverbial in stories, but there are few households which do not find a fairly good list of borrowed articles accumulated in the course of the year, a book from this friend, an umbrella from that, a written recipe from another, a bit of fancy work as a model from another, and so on. The use which the borrower has for the loaned articles is temporary. It is therefore purely a selfish laziness which retains them after such use from the owner, who may be in positive and continuous need of the thing.—Exchange.

The Trouble With Poets.

"Trouble 'bout these here poets," said the Georgia farmer, "they none of 'em make good field hands."

"Ever tried 'em?"

"Of course. They're dead set ag'in plowin' for fear they'll hurt a wild flower, an' they won't beat an' swear at a mule for fear he's got a soul."

"That's strange."

"No, it ain't. 'Twixt you an' me an' the gatepost it's downright inherited laziness."—Atlanta Constitution.

New Bark In Trees.

It is not a new fact, but yet a remarkable one, that if a fruit tree—apple, pear or cherry—be stripped entirely of its bark in the second week in June a new surface of bark will immediately take the place of the older one. It is believed that the chief growth of deciduous trees in our part of the world takes place at midsummer.

MITCHELL ENJOINED!

A Coal Agency Files a Bill in Equity in a Federal Court.

WHAT THE BILL CONTAINS

Plaintiff Alleges That Mitchell and Others Intimidate Employes of Various Concerns.

WHEN HEARING WILL TAKE PLACE

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 1.—President John Mitchell has been enjoined. A bill in equity was filed in the Federal court here yesterday by the Chesapeake and Ohio Coal Agency company, a New Jersey corporation, which has its principal offices in the New York, in which 50 coal companies operating in the New River fields, the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway company, G. W. Purcell, W. B. Wilson, John Mitchell, T. J. Carroll, J. A. A. Richards an dabout 100 members of the United Mine Workers of America are made defendants.

The bill sets up that the complainant is engaged in selling coal and coke and has a contract for the output of the collieries which are made a party defendant, and a contract with the defendant railway company for the shipment of coal so purchased; that the coal is resold by complainant under contract to manufacturing concerns, etc., and to the United States government for fuel on naval vessels; that because of a strike in the field embraced by the various companies mentioned which has existed since June 7 last, the coal companies have failed to live up to the contracts for the deliveries of coals; that there exists a secret organization known as the United Mine Workers of America, of which John Mitchell is president and W. B. Wilson is secretary, under the orders of which the men employed in the mines who are members of this organization have quit work and refuse to do their duties and in addition thereto so conduct themselves as to intimidate employes of the various companies, thus preventing them going to the work which they desire to perform and the said defendants occupy the tenement houses of the various companies and fail and refuse to vacate them at the request of the coal companies owning them.

The bill, which is a long one, was presented to Judge Keller yesterday and he issued a temporary order restraining and prohibiting the defendants, Purcell, Wilson, Mitchell and others, all of whom are named in the order and all others associating or acting with them from in any way interfering with the management, operation or conducting of said mines by the owners or those operating them, either by menaces, threats of any character or intimidation used to prevent the employes of said mines from going to or from said mines and coke plants or from engaging in the business of mining in said mines or laboring upon said coke plants. The purpose of this restraining order, Judge Keller says, is to prevent unlawful combinations or conspirers or to restrain all the defendants engaged in the promotion of such unlawful combination and conspiracies and all other persons from entering upon the properties of the coal companies named in this order and from in any way interfering with the employes of said coal companies or either of them in their mining operations and manufacturing of coke, either witnin the mines or upon the coke oven plants or from passing from their homes to their mines and coke oven plants or from the mines and coke oven plants to their homes, and from in any manner unlawfully inciting persons who are engaged in working in the said mines or the said coke oven plants to cease work therein and from unlawfully preventing persons who desire to work in said mines or upon said coke oven plants entering into such service for the said defendant coal companies and from in any way aiding and abetting such acts as may result in the violation and destruction of the rights of the complainant under its contracts as recited in the bill herein.

The motion for a permanent injunction is set down for hearing at Charleston, November 18, 1902.

The court appears to have taken no cognizance of the request to have the defendant coal companies force the defendant individuals to vacate the tenement houses.

Hicks' Forecast For August.

The 3rd and 4th of August are central days of reactionary storm disturbances. On and touching these days the temperature will rise to a climax of warmth, and barometric readings will fall, progressively from west to east, ending in threatening clouds, with thunder, light rains and heavy bluster in many sections. On the 5th earth passes between the sun and the great world Jupiter, near new moon on the 3rd and the moon's passage over the celestial equator on the 6th. These facts will necessitate excessively warm weather, and if violent electrical storms do not result seismic perturbations will be most natural.

The Vulcan storm period central on the 9th, covering the 7th to 12th, will be marked by changes in the thermometer and barometer, common to the storm periods, and culmination into storm, with more or less precipitation, may be expected on and touching the 9th, 10th and 11th. This period may be watched with interest, as it may indicate one way or another, much that may be in store for us for weeks to come. We would like much to be mistaken, but we fear that in the main, warm and dry will prevail.

On the 14th, 15th and 16th a reaction to storm conditions will be noticeable—the barometer will fall, warmth will increase, cloudiness will ensue, and rains, according to the abundance or lightness prevailing in the Mars period, will visit many parts in transit from west to east.

The Vulcan storm period extends from the 18th to 23. During this period we find that the moon is at her full on the 18th and on the celestial equator on the 21st. Earth will have entered far enough into the autumnal equinox at this time, to make it possible for dangerous storms to appear on the southern seas and coasts. West India hurricanes are not at all improbable at this period.

If the present Mars period should take the stormy side of the dilemma, all the periods in the last half of August will bring general storms, some of them furious and fatal. The reactionary storms on and about the 26th to 28th, at the centre of the Mercury period, and near the moon's last quarter, north declination and perigee, will possibly be fraught with violence and danger, especially along the south coasts. We enter into a regular storm period as we pass out of August, the crisis of which will fall the first three days in September.

"Beggar Day" in Porto Rico.

Saturday is a day set aside by Porto Rican law and custom for beggars. On this day they are allowed to beg and ply their calling about over the streets of San Juan and other towns of the islands, and the merchants and well-to-do people anticipate the event by placing, where the beggars can get them, little boxes of food, clothing and things to eat and wear. One Saturday I saw as many as twenty-eight beggars lined up, single file, before the door of one of the finest houses in San Juan. Curious to know the reason for this singular gathering, I awaited developments, and presently a well-dressed gentleman came to the door and handed every beggar in the lot a penny. It seemed that he had been doing this for years, and that the beggars gathered regularly every Saturday morning in front of his house in expectation of the dole that he never refused. In one respect I think this is a custom that might with profit be copied by our American cities, for during the other days of the week mendicants are not allowed on the streets, and are arrested and fined whenever they break this law.

The Wreck of the Fast Mail.

John W. Kemmerling, the engineer who was killed in the wreck of fast mail at Packsaddle Wednesday was considered one of the most daring engineers on the road.

A few years ago he had a narrow escape on a slope east of Gallitzin, when the crown sheet blew out of No. 1072. He was not injured but was laid off two months by the management of the road.

The train wrecked is the one which recently broke the record for fast running between Altoona and Pittsburg. This time it smashed all records from a point east of Gallitzin to where it was wrecked, covering 53 miles in 47 minutes. The engine and two cars that went over the bank were so badly damaged that they are beyond repair. It is the train that struck and killed Charles Stetler at the Tyrone depot on the morning of the 18th of July.

Of Interest to Townships.

The opinion just handed down by the superior court relative to indebtedness of a township in Luzerne county, which is to the effect that townships must pay their own debts, is of far reaching interest and should be weighed well. The suit grew out of a township in Luzerne county with 7,000 inhabitants having a debt of $64,000. The superior court directs that a special levy be made on the taxables, based on the valuation as revised by the county commissioners. The lesson, though a severe one, will teach property owners to pay more attention to the proper administration.

A FATAL RIOT.

It Occurred at Shenandoah Tuesday Evening and a Number of Persons Were Hurt.

SCORES OF STRIKERS VICTIMS

Joseph Beddell, a Prominent Merchant and a Cousin of the Sheriff Clubbed to Death.

TROOPS ORDERED TO THE SCENE

SHENANDOAH, July 31.—A reign of terror, compared with which the scenes enacted during the riots of 1900, seem insignificant, held Shenandoah in its grasp last night. Center street, which is one of the principal streets of the town, was in the hands of an infuriated mob. Two of the borough policemen were shot, one perhaps fatally. Joseph Beddal, a leading merchant and cousin of Sheriff Beddal, was brutally clubbed to death, and upwards of a score of strikers, whose names at this writing could not be ascertained, were shot by policemen, and it is expected that many deaths will result. Sheriff Beddal arrived from Pottsville at 7.45 o'clock with a posse of deputies. He has taken up his headquarters at the Ferguson hotel. To an Associated Press reporter he admitted that he has asked Governor Stone to send the militia. The governor wired that if the citizens of the town petition for troops he will send them and a petition is being circulated for the purpose now. It is almost certain that the troops will be here today. The trouble started about 6 o'clock last evening when Deputy Sheriff Thomas Beddal attempted to escort two nonunion workers through the strikers line of pickets. The workmen were dressed in their street clothes, but one of them carried a bundle under his arm and this aroused the suspicion of the strikers. The bundle was torn from him, and when it was found to contain a blouse and overalls the men were taken from the deputy and beat almost to death.

In the meantime Beddal opened fire on the mob which had gathered by this time and emptied his revolver. Two of the shots took effect, one man being shot in the leg and the other in the foot. The deputy and the other strike breaker were now compelled to fly for their lives and took refuge in the Philadelphia and Reading depot. The depot was soon surrounded by an angry mob of 5,000, which was becoming more threatening and demonstrative every moment. Joseph Beddal, a hardware merchant and brother of the deputy sheriff, was seen making his way through the crowd in an effort to reach his brother, and the mob, believing he was carrying ammunition to those inside the depot, seized him and beat him with clubs and billies into insensibility. He died en route to the Miners' hospital.

Shortly after this the entire borough police force arrived on the scene and escorted the deputy sheriff and his men to an engine which had been backed into the depot for that purpose. When the mob realized that their man was about to escape they surrounded the engine and the engineer was afraid to move. In a few moments, however, the police fired a volley dispersing the crowd for a brief period and the engineer turned on full steam and got away safely. Stones were now thrown thick and fast about the heads of the police, whereupon Chief of Police Fry gave the order to fire. At the first volley the mob fell back and several were seen to fall. Their retreat, however, was but momentary. They turned and with revolvers, stones and even a few shotguns, they charged on the little band of policemen and made them fly for their lives. The policemen turned in their flight at short intervals and fired volley after volley at their merciless pursuers but the mob seemed thoroughly infuriated and smoking revolvers seemed to have no terrors for them. When the Lehigh railroad crossing was reached, a passing freight train blocked the progress of the police, two of whom were caught and brutally beaten. Of them Stiney Yacopsky will die.

It is estimated that upwards of fifty shots were fired and it is doubtful that many fatalities did not result. The strikers, many of whom were foreigners, were shot. Two of them will die. Many of the business men and politicians are refusing to sign the petition, fearing the miners will boycott them after the trouble is over and after the governor has made the sending of troops contingent on the petition of the citizens, there is some doubt as to whether they will be sent.

The streets late last night were still crowded with people but everything was quiet.

HARRISBURG, July 31.—Governor Stone has ordered the Eighth and Twelfth regiments and the Governor's troop of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, in command of General J. P. S. Gobin, to proceed immediately to Shenandoah, the scene of yesterday's rioting. General Gobin left here shortly after midnight in a special train, and it is expected that all the troops, the combined strength of which is 1,500, will be on the ground by daybreak.

Dr. Edward Humes Harris Gains Popularity.

Dr. Edward Humes Harris, son of our townsman John P. Harris, Esq., who for the past two years has been physician at the St. Luke's Hospital, Philadelphia, recently went to Butler to locate in the practice of his profession, but unlike most young physicians who have to labor for years to acquire name, fame and reputation he suddenly has stepped into prominence and gained great popularity.

Shortly after he took up his residence in that town and hung out his shingle one of the citizens of the place was stricken with that loathsome disease smallpox, and not a solitary physician among the old practitioners would attend the case. The Board of Health made every effort to secure the services of some one, in order that the patient might be properly and humanely cared for, but no one would take the risk. When Dr. Harris heard of the situation he immediately went to them and told them that although it would be almost suicidal to his professional prospects he had not the heart to sit idly by when the skillful services of a physician were required, and would undertake the care of the patient.

The citizens by this time had been thoroughly aroused to the seriousness of the situation as they were afraid of the contagious character of the disease, and it was with a feeling of deep gratitude to the new doctor that his services were accepted, and he has now charge of the temporary smallpox hospital in that place. The patients, for he now has more than one, are doing well under his care, and when the quarantine is raised he will be the most popular young practicing physician in Western Pennsylvania.

Lawn Fete.

The Lawn fete Thursday night at the suburban residence of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Mitchell was a delightful affair. The extensive grounds were handsomely decorated and illuminated by electricity arranged in an artistic manner among the trees and shrubbery giving it the appearance of fairy land.

The hostess, Miss Grace Mitchell, assisted by her two friends, Misses. Darrow and Shaffner, received on the eastern porch of the old ancestral home, under a bower of plants and flowers. The weather being warm, dry and pleasant, the guests were enabled to appear in their best. Some of the gowns were simply exquisite, while the younger folks looked fascinating, in their dainty white summer frocks and ribbons.

During the evening choice refreshments were served, and at a proper hour, the guests departed to their several homes, each one and all, expressing the sentiment, that never was a function of similar character enjoyed to a greater degree than was this.

Schwab Will Build a Bishop's Palace.

Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel Corporation, has concluded to add another to his list of benefactions and will build at Altoona a handsome palace for Right Rev. Eugene A. Garvey the first bishop of the Catholic diocese of Altoona.

The building will be of magnificent proportions, will be constructed of stone and will have all the requirements requisite for the accommodation of the bishop and his entourage. It will be 140 feet in length. The plans, however, have not yet been drawn up and the details yet remain for consideration.

Anticipating Trouble.

A Centre county woman who seems to have found out that marriage is a failure has had the following pathetic verse carved upon the tombstone of the fifth and last husband: "Five husbands have I buried with many a sigh and prayer; there'll be trouble in heaven, if we know each other there."

Breaking a Custom.

At one time if a Japanese girl married a foreigner she was instantly decapitated. A Portuguese gentleman was probably the first European to marry a daughter of the land of the chrysanthemum with impunity. He went there years ago and fell in love with a Japanese girl. Her parents warned her of the fatal consequences of marrying him, but she persisted, with the result that the mikado decided that she must be beheaded. However, after a correspondence of over five years' duration between the Portuguese and Japanese governments she was permitted to live.

Human Bait For Leeches.

In meridional Russia and especially in the innumerable ponds of the basin of the Don and Donetz rivers the inhabitants gain a remunerative livelihood, though dangerous and disagreeable, in leech fishing. Bare legged they tramp about the water, and leeches fix themselves upon the bare flesh. As soon as the fishers reach terra firma they remove the flabby animals and deposit them in an earthen vessel. It is a painful and weakening operation and sometimes even fatal.

The Town of Mothers.

The town of Leonberg, in Wurttemberg, is known as the "town of mothers," for there the mothers of Schiller and Kepler lived. On the walk of the old castle where the magna charta of Wurttemberg liberties was signed by Ulrich, the well beloved, tablets have been placed in honor of the mothers of the poet and the astronomer.

The animal also learns to recognize persons and remembers those who feed it, instantly distinguishing them from strangers.

The bride is the granddaughter of the late Balser Weber, one of the wealthiest and most representative citizens of the county. The groom belongs to an equally representative family and only last fall served two years with the 47th regiment in the Philippines.

After a short wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. Long will locate at Howard.

Miss Catherine Colfelt.

After a triumphal season at the court of Greece and various Continental social centres, Miss Catherine Colfelt, one of the few American girls who have danced with royalty, returned to her home in Philadelphia, Monday.

For over a year Miss Colfelt, accompanied by a chaperone, has been touring Europe. She is the granddaughter of James McManes, the millionaire banker and man of affaire, and the daughter of the Rev. Dr. Lawrence M. Colfelt, pastor of the Oxford Presbyterian Church.

Arrested for Forgery.

Sheriff Brungart arrested a young man by the name of Bruce Yarnell at Snow Shoe, charged with forgery, and bought him to town Wednesday.

It seems young Yarnell bought a horse and buggy and paid for same with a note endorsed by his grandfather, the note falling due, it was not paid and the grandfather says it is not his endorsement, hence the arrest. The matter will be explained at next court.

THE BELLEFONTE "REPUBLICAN" FOR 25 CENTS.

In order to place the REPUBLICAN, during the coming campaign, in as many homes as possible, we have decided to make the following liberal offer. On receipt of 25 cents, we will mail the REPUBLICAN (weekly) to new subscribers, until after the election in November. As the campaign promises to be decidedly exciting and interesting, persons wishing to keep themselves informed on the political situation, should avail themselves of this generous offer. The REPUBLICAN intends taking a leading and decided stand during the campaign, and we promise interesting reading to its subcribers.

TUESDAY'S CONVENTION.

Never within the history of Republicanism in Centre County has there been a convention of the party, in which the spirit of harmony, good feeling and determination to accomplish good results as that which marked the Convention held this week.

Representative republicans from every precinct in the county assembled to take part in the proceedings, and there was not a ripple to cause any feeling, other than that, to do the best for the party, and from the time John Gowland took the gavel in hand to direct the Convention, until the motion was made to adjourn, the utmost good order and decorum was observed. Mr. Gowland made an admirable presiding officer, quick to take in the situation, and expeditious in carrying out the rules of order.

Owing to the fact that the delegates had received instructions at the primaries for most of the candidates to be chosen, there was little time spent in calling the roll, and in one hour from the time of convening, the Republican Convention for 1902 had adjourned.

In another column will be found a detailed report of the proceedings, also the resolutions, which were adopted unanimously and with great enthusiasm.

The ticket nominated, which appears at the head of our columns, will bear the most careful scrutiny. It consists of men who are known to nearly every voter in the county, and we have no apology to offer, or explanation to make, in a solitary case.

Dr. M. J. Locke is probably not as well known throughout the county, as most of the others, but at home, where we are thoroughly acquainted with him, he has the respect and confidence of every one. He is a physician with a large practice, and stands high in his profession, and is a man of education, and sound judgment just such a person as would ably represent this district in the national Congress.

Alexander E. Patton of Clearfield county, who was endorsed for State Senator, is a prominent business man of Curwensville, and known throughout this portion of the state, as a true and tried republican, with the ability to take a foremost place among our state law makers.

For Assembly we have J. N. Schoonover of Philipsburg and James B. Strohm of Potter Township, who are qualified, and will make honest, trustworthy representatives at Harrisburg.

Henry Lowry for Sheriff, represents a class of people who are too often shoved aside on account of their station in life, for Henry is nothing but a carpenter, but he is a good carpenter, an honest and industrious man, a kind neighbor and a good republican. These are the only points about Mr. Lowry that may make him unpopular with the democratic press, but with the thinking class, he will command their respect and support.

For Recorder the citizens of Philipsburg presented H. H. Hewitt of that town with such a recommendation as to his character and fitness to discharge the duties of the office, that he was nominated without opposition.

For Register Earle C. Tuten, whose father conducted the "Republican" for so many years, was chosen. We have known Earle Tuten from childhood and have nothing but words of praise to say, concerning him. He is a sober, industrious young man, with no bad habits, and eminently qualified to perform the duties of register.

Dr. S. M. Huff for Coroner is a practicing physician in Milesburg, and will conduct the affairs of that office to the satisfaction of every one, and just here, we will call attention to the fact, that the coroner is a very important officer, and no one unless he be thoroughly qualified should be elected to the position.

For Commissioners Abraham V. Miller of Spring Township and John G. Bailey of Ferguson were the only ames before the Convention. They were accordingly unanimously nominated. We need waste no time in telling of Abe Miller's good qualities, nor his fitness to serve us in this capacity. The only thing the opposition can say against Abe. is, he was so unfortunate as to be shot through the mouth, defending our homes, away back in the sixties, otherwise he is all right. Great big hearted Abe. He would give the last penny in the world, to relieve suffering and distress. J. G. Bailey, is the very kind of man to make a good Commissioner, a practical, successful farmer. He knows how to manage his own affairs and has the faculty of understanding business methods. In the community where he lives his name is synonymous with all that is good and honest, and no tax payer will regret having voted for him.

There were two persons nominated for the office of Auditor, Mr. Archibald Allison of Spring Mills, the present incumbent, whose qualifications no one questions, and H. B. Pontius of Bellefonte who is a first class accountant, and thoroughly reliable in every respect.

Col. W. F. Reeder was re-elected County Chairman without opposition for the ensuing year. We do not hesitate to pronounce Col. Reeder one of the best political leaders in Centre County. He has led us to victory on former occasions, and with a united party, together with the clean strong ticket nominated on Tuesday, we need not fear defeat in November. He will need our support and encouragement, however, and it should, and will be cheerfully rendered.

PROPHECY vs. VOTES.

Hon. P. Gray Meek may be a descendant of the prophets, but he himself is not much of a success at foretelling coming events, for instance, he devoted about a quarter of a column of valuable space in last week's "Watchman," telling how there was to be a great upheaval in Tuesdays Convention, but things did not upheave as he predicted. He told how Henry Lowry J. N. Schoonover, Phil. Foster, Abe Miller, and all the rest of the announced candidates, were to be side-tracked, and new men, whom he named brought out. Now he will certainly acknowledge his mistake.

Republican politics in Centre County are not managed behind closed doors nor are candidates conceived in Democratic sanctums, but the people have a voice in naming those who are to compose the ticket.

Hon. Meek must not, for one moment, think that we conduct our affairs as the great and only democratic party of Centre County, which resides in Bellefonte, does theirs.

As the Campaign opens with this week, would suggest to our friend and neighbor, that he devote all the valuable space in his paper, to try and reconcile the discontented members of his own party, and their name is legion, as he will discover later on. In doing so, he will find ample use for his time and talents, and even then will fail to accomplish the desired end. We will attend to our side without any aid from him. Of course, as he is given to prophecy, we will allow him the privilege of prophesying the defeat of our ticket, next November. When that time comes, he will find it is a question of prophecy against votes, votes winning every time.

MONDAY NIGHT'S COUNCIL MEETING.

The meeting of Council Monday night was not entirely devoid of interest, in fact quite the reverse. As we stated in Saturday's paper, a large number of the property holders along Water street were present, and, though not opposing the opening of the street, gave notice that if the borough, in making this street forty feet wide, would encroach upon their property, to such an extent as to cause damage, they would expect to be remunerated to the extent of damage sustained. This effrontery, of the taxpayers protesting against any action of the Town Council, raised the ire of Councilman Kirk, who is so accustomed to having everything go his way, that he made a motion to the effect that if the citizens along that street wanted to be paid for damage to their property, that the plan of opening said street be abandoned. The Doctor was promptly sat down upon by the balance of the Council, who saw that these persons were doing just what he would have done under similar circumstances. They were merely contending for their rights and not acting in an unreasonable or arbitrary manner.

We cannot understand why he would do so much for the Hanover Pump and Wheel Company, and show such an ugly spirit towards his own citizens. Surely he would ask the Council damages if they would encroach upon his property, and he should be paid, but all the same Water street will now be made, after these many months of waiting.

The Water Committee, through its chairman, reported that the firm who put in the new wheel and pump had made a mistake in their measurements and desired further time to make it work. This was granted. He failed to state that the pump was no good, which was an insult to the Council as well as the taxpayers who have to pay the bill.

The proposition to collect the water tax under the new schedule four times per year, to be collected by superintendent of water works, was adopted, and we advise all persons whose taxes are exhorbitant, to refuse making payment, as the matter will be taken to court and determined how far the Council can go in this direction. There will be some interesting developments before they get through. Will just add that the receipts of the treasurer for the last two weeks were about $150, orders drawn on him by Council were over $800.

MR. NEWTON S. BAILEY, who for the past twenty years has been associated with the newspapers of Bellefonte, will next week, connect himself with the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN. Beginning on Monday he will, until further notice, act as the outside representative of this paper, visiting the subscribers and friends in every part of the county. He expects to spend the first two weeks in Bald Eagle valley and as he is quite well and favorably known we assure for him a cordial reception, and any favor extended will be highly appreciated by us.

In Memoriam.

KRUSE.—In loving but sad remembrance of our dead sister, Henrietta Kruse, who departed this life August 5th, 1901.

Just one year ago today
Since sister passed away;
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
Until God called her home to suffer no more.
The depths of our sorrow tongues cannot tell,
At the loss of the one we loved so well,
And while she lies in peaceful sleep,
Her sacred memory we shall keep.

HER SISTERS.

Widow Holds Doctor Responsible.

Mrs. Mary A. DeLong, of Cammal, has brought suit against Dr. W. E. Delaney, of Slate Run, to recover $10,000 for the loss of her husband, whose death followed five days after an accident in which his leg was broken, several arteries being severed by bone splinters while DeLong was being brought to Williamsport. Dr. Delaney's defense was that his professional directions were arbitrarily ignored, and that, therefore, he is in no wise to blame.

Young Lady Falls From Load of Hay.

Wednesday of last week while Miss Nettie Swartz a popular young lady of Howard was riding from the field to the barn on a load of hay she fell off and was badly hurt. The Hustler says her wrist was broken and her shoulder dislocated. The doctor was summoned and the broken member set and at present she is getting along as well as could be expected notwithstanding she suffers a great deal of pain.

One of Her Feet Cut Off.

The five year old daughter of Frank Niles, of Coudersport, Potter county, Friday, was in a tree trying to cut off a branch, and wanting her father's knife she waited until he drove under the tree with his mowing machine. Then she jumped in front of the knives and before the horses could be stopped one of her feet was cut off.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY UNITED IN THE SUPPORT OF JUDGE PENNYPACKER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Philadelphia, Aug. 5.—The fact that the Republican party is united in support of Judge Pennypacker is being demonstrated every day. Hon. Charles Emory Smith, Post-Master General in the cabinet of McKinley and Roosevelt, and editor of the Philadelphia Press, is the latest distinguished Republican to add his voice to the Pennypacker volume. He will be heard later on the stump.

The Philadelphia Press has always been noted for its independent Republican leanings; this year it is supporting the Republican ticket with all the virile force of its editorial page.

Your correspondent had a lengthy interview with General Smith yesterday. Besides being a former minister to St. Petersburg and member of the Cabinet he is one of the best posted men on great national issues in this or any other state. In his interview, which follows, the Ex-Postmaster General expressed himself with great earnestness and vigor. He said:

WANTS THE PARTY TO STAND TOGETHER.

"For nearly four years prior to last January, I was practically out of Pennsylvania politics. While at Washington, in the Cabinet, I could not actively participate in State movements. On my return in January to resume my place among the active Republicans of the state, I was exceedingly anxious that the party should act in such a manner that all Republicans of every shade could stand together in its support.

"It was important on broad national grounds that the Republican organization of Pennsylvania should take this position. It is a transition time. The events of the past four years have put the party on a new trial. While not relinquishing its devotion to the economic, financial and moral principles with which its past history has been identified, the advance of the republic to new obligations and new responsibilities in the world has surrounded the nation and the party in control with new conditions. It is vital that the ability of the party to meet a new situation should be demonstrated and that its hold on public confidence should not be impaired.

A CRITICAL SITUATION.

"The situation is critical in another respect. President McKinley had passed away and President Roosevelt had taken the helm. The accession of a Vice President to the Presidency under such circumstances has always heretofore been marked by trouble and conflict. In every case, except immediately after the war when the Southern States did not participate in the election, it has been followed by political revulsion. President Roosevelt's patriotic continuation of President McKinley's policies and the great ability, courage and fidelity with which he has addressed himself to the highest interests of the people, have made the situation different from all previous successions. But no risks should be taken and the Republican organization should be as wise and true as the President in holding the ship steadfast on her course.

"While the Republican party is thus swinging to a new position and facing new and broader questions, it would be disastrous if Pennsylvania should do anything that would weaken the movement. The country and the party must become as fixed and stable on the new lines as they were on the old. It was this reason which made it specially important that the Republican organization of Pennsylvania should proceed in such a way as to make no division and detract nothing from the strength of the administration and the national position of the party.

PENNYPACKER HAS PARTY'S CONFIDENCE.

"This fortunate result was assured in the nomination of Judge Pennypacker for Governor. That nomination made it certain that the Republicans of the state would stand together and that at this important juncture, when the party faces the future under new conditions, its successful career will not be clouded by any doubt or any extraneous issues in Pennsylvania. Judge Pennypacker possesses and deserves universal confidence. He has been twelve years on the bench and has been distinguished as a learned, fearless and upright judge. He is a man of an independent type of mind who thinks and acts for himself, and whose sense of right and honor controls all his action.

REPUBLICANS EVERYWHERE SATISFIED.

"The strength of his nomination is shown in the fact that it has practically disarmed criticism and opposition and has been accepted by Republicans of all shades as meeting the requirements of the situation. It is within my knowledge that leading Republicans of every part of the country have expressed their great gratification at the wisdom of this action and their satisfaction that the Republicans of Pennsylvania will present a united front. The President, who is so earnestly laboring to meet the best demands of the country and to keep it on the high plane of prosperity and progress, is strengthened by the responsiveness of the Republicans of Pennsylvania to the spirit of the times, and such a victory as may now be expected will uphold his hands in his good work."

Later in the interview General Smith said that he expected to take the stump for Pennypacker this fall.

THE COUNTY CONVENTION.

this, the 34th Senatorial District, and

Be It Further Resolved, that the said Hon. A. E. Patton be authorized and empowered to select his own conferees to meet with other conferees of the District for the purpose of making the nomination for said office.

W. S. Miller offered the following which was adopted.

Resolved that in case of any vacancy or vacancies on the Republican ticket by death, withdrawal, removal, declination or any other cause whatsoever, such vacancy or vacancies shall be filled by a County Convention to be convened at the call of the County Chairman, which Convention shall be composed of the delegates who attended the last preceding County Convention and the substituted nomination or nominations so made shall be certified in the manner required by law.

The Committee on Resolutions presented their report which was unanimously adopted.

Resolved, By the Republicans of Centre county, in convention assembled:

FIRST. That we congratulate the people of the Union upon the state of prosperity that pervades the whole land, stimulating every industry to the highest degree of activity, creating an unprecedented demand for labor and opening up every avenue to those desiring profitable employment. This condition, brought about by the wise and patriotic policy of the Republican party during the past five years, has rapidly and permanently advanced this nation to a more commanding position in the commerce of the world and affords a complete answer to the theories and predictions of those who opposed the Republican policy in 1896 and again in 1900, and affords a conclusive and unanswerable argument in favor of a continuance of the policy of the lamented McKinley, so ably seconded and carried on by his successor, President Roosevelt.

SECOND. That we pledge anew our fealty and allegiance to the party that has brought about such an improved condition in the business world, that by its policy has advanced so materially our every interest among the nations of the world, that has secured peace at home and honor abroad and that has for its aim and purpose the advancement and elevation of all classes of people under its protection.

THIRD. That we again promise to the entire Republican ticket, to be voted in November next, both state and local, the full, earnest and united support of every Republican of Centre county and we assure the candidates of this party that by a united effort we can and will return Centre county to the Republican column, where she so rightfully belongs.

Edmund Blanchard read a set of rules to govern the County Committee and making several changes in relative to holding primaries, the matter was referred to the Committee on Rules to report next year. After a few short speeches from the successful candidates the Convention adjourned.

IT MUST BE TRUE.

Bellefonte readers must come to that conclusion

One isolated case in Bellefonte might be dne to accident, two or three might be imagination on the part of the endorsers, but a score or two indisputably proves that there is at least within the reach of all one remedy which keeps its promises—that remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this:

Mr. Geo. Gross of Water Street, says:—"In the summer of 1876, I used Doan's Kidney Pills for backache procuring them from the Bush Block Drug Store. Accompanying the pains in my back was an annoyance from the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills cure me after I had been troubled for years. I thought I was going to have backache again, but two years afterward I went fishing, got soaked through and this ended in affecting my back, I again restored my old cure Doan's Kidney Pills, and they did me good immediately, although in the meantime I had taken other remedies but without obtaining relief. I can as conscientiously recommend Doan's Kidney Pills now as I did formerly for backache or kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster Milburn C., Buffalo N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

Prof. Angel, in the short time he has been visiting this section, has met with marked success. Scores of leading citizens of this community have found relief from his treatment. It is not necessary to travel to Eastern cities for treatment when you can consult an eminent oculist at home.

—The Wopsy is in trouble again. Samuel J. Langdon, president of the Pittsburg, Johnstown, Ebensburg and Eastern railroad, appeared in Altoona Monday and issued a writ of replevin on the Wopsy railroad. He filed a bond with the court for $42,327, given by a Philadelphia trust company. The court approved the bond and the writ was served Tuesday. Tuesday evening an official of the Altoona and Beech Creek railroad stated that the road will be operated as usual, notwithstanding all rumors to the contrary, and despite the service of the writ.

—A movement has been started to secure the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic for Pittsburg in 1903. At the meeting of the Grand Army association of Allegheny county, held Saturday last, a committee was appointed to endeavor to interest the business men and citizens generally in the matter with a view of going in the encampment which meets at Washington, D. C., in October and extending an invitation from the Smoky City for the next encampment. The encampment was held in Pittsburg in 1894.

—A minister in the west preached a brief but beautiful funeral sermon the other day. Here it is: "A word to you all. Post mortem praises and love are in the air. People kiss their dead that never stop to kiss their living; they hover over open caskets in hysteric sobs, and fail to throw their arms around their loved ones who are fighting the stern battle of life. A word of cheer to a struggling soul in life is worth more than the roses of Christendom piled high on a casket cover. The dead can't smell the flowers, but the living can; scatter them broadcast in their pathway, therefore and pluck out the thorns before it is too late.

—The "Bellefonters" returned Friday from their camping trip. They look well and report having had a good time.

—Miss Lizzie Reed, the Bellefonte girl who is ill with smallpox at Lock Haven is improving rapidly. It is said she will be able to leave the hospital early next week.

—Don't forget the DAILY NEWS, when you want Job Work done. We are equipped to do any kind of work at short notice in the most artistic manner and at the lowest prices.

—The Harrisburg "Patriot," the only morning paper at the State Capital, has been sold to Mayor Vance McCormick. Darwin G. Fenno, formerly of the Philadelphia "Times," is the new editor.

—Miss Mary Warfield daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Warfield, received by express Wednesday evening from a friend in Iowa, a beautiful, little King Charles Spaniel, and for a pup, it has thus far proved to be a howling success.

—Messrs. F. B. Eckenroth and R. B. Woomer, of Bellefonte, undertook and successfully completed the hazardous work of painting the ball on the top of the Baptist steeple at Lewisburg. The height climbed was one hundred and seventy five feet.

—The following citizens of Penn Street spent Friday at Hecla Park Mrs. L. M. Alfenderfer, Mrs. Robert Woodring, Mrs. Isaac Longacre, Mrs. Martin del, Misses. Ellingsen, Catherine Derstine, Alice Tate, Jennie Longacre and several children belonging to above families.

—Tacey Lambert, the ten-year-old son of George Lambert, of Milesburg, while on the mountain picking berries Tuesday afternoon found one of the Yeager & Davis balloons with tag attached which entitles him to a pair of shoes. The little fellow was very much pleased over his good luck.

—Word was received Wednesday evening from Winburne, that a mad dog running around loose in that village Wednesday afternoon, succeeded in biting four persons before the citizens succeeded in killing it. We hope no serious results will follow those who were so unfortunate as to be bitten.

—The Bond Holders of the Bellefonte Gas Co., held a meeting Saturday morning and appointed a committee consisting of Messrs John M. Dale, Isaac Mitchell and Chas. McCurdy to prepare and submit at a subsequent meeting some plan as to the future of the work, whether to sell or continue operating them.

—We obeserved four good, healthy looking cows, browsing on the school house commons Thursday. When they get that cleaned off they will, no doubt, try some of the beautiful lawns on Linn street. We were under the impression, there was an ordinance prohibiting cattle running at large in our borough but the owners of these bovines are evidently aware of the fact that none of our ordinances can be enforced. The Council at their next meeting, if they have the time, after hearing the voluminous report of the Water Committee, should take this ordinance matter up, and the president ought to see that the committee having it in charge, attend to their duty.

Radio Active Substances.

Different solid bodies—copper, platinum, lead, glass, wax, paper, etc.—become radio active when they are placed in a closed vessel along with one of the radio active salts of barium or, still better, immersed in a solution of such a salt. The induced radiation is of the same character as that of the original salt—its rays are deviated in the magnetic field. If a tube containing a gas under low pressure has a current of electricity passed through it, the gas becomes luminous when the pressure is low enough, as is well known. Air at 33 millimeters pressure becomes luminous when so treated, for example. When a radio active substance is held near to such a tube, the luminosity begins at a higher pressure, which for air is 44 millimeters. The color of the light varies in the two cases.

A New Temperance Wrinkle.

A novel scheme of combating the liquor traffic has been adopted by the Methodist Ministerial association of Williamsport. The liquor men are extensive advertisers in the local street cars. These "ads" have long been an eyesore to the ministers, who have decided to do some advertising on their own account. Spaces have been rented in each car beside the liquor advertisements and cards printed in bold type are displayed containing Biblical texts, such as "Wine is a Mocker." Next Sunday a collection will be taken up in the Methodist churches to defray the expenses of keeping these cards in position for a year.

Mrs. H. A. Alsbrook, of Austin, Lonoke Co., Ark., writes: "After five months of great suffering with female weakness I write this for the benefit of other sufferers from the same affliction. I doctored with our family physician without any good result, so my husband urged me to try Dr. Pierce's medicines—which I did, with wonderful results. I am completely cured. A SUDDEN DEATH.

Mrs. Newton Steele, of Axe Mann, Expired While Sitting on Front Porch.

Mary, wife of Newton Steele, died very suddenly Friday evening about 7 o'clock at her home near Boiling Springs. Mrs. Steele had not been in good health for some time past, but Friday evening she appeared to be better than usual. She was sitting on her front porch enjoying the cool of the evening and talking to her husband and his venerable father, Perry Steele, Sr., when she suddenly fell from her chair dead. Her sudden death was a great shock to her family and friends and the sympathy of the whole community goes out to them in this sad affliction. Death was due to heart disease.

Mrs. Steele, whose maiden name was Marry Emmel, was a daughter of David Emmel and was born at Axe Mann 49 years ago. She was a sincere Christian woman and enjoyed the respect of all who came in contact with her. She is survived by her husband and the following sisters and brother: Mrs. Lottie Morse, Philipsburg, Montana; Mrs. Nancy White, Milesburg; Mrs. A. B. Steele, Bellefonte, and Zach, Tyrone.

The funeral took place Monday morning at 10 o'clock from her late residence. The Methodist minister at Pleasant Gap officiating. Interment in the Lutheran cemetery at Pleasant Gap.

Death of I. B. McEntire.

The sad intelligence has reached us that our old friend and neighbor, Mr. I. B. McEntire, died at his home in Williamsport Saturday morning about seven o'clock, after an illness of several months, aged 78 years. The cause of his death being due to complications of disease incident to old age.

Mr. McEntire was born in Clarion County, but in early life removed to Houserville, this county. He was actively engaged in business pursuits until a few years ago when he was compelled, by impaired health, to retire from active business. For twenty-four years he conducted a store and the post office at Fillmore, afterwards opened a general store in Bush addition near Bellefonte. He was a consistent member of the Methodist church, a man of honesty and integrity, generous and hospitable in the highest degree, a good citizen and a kind neighbor. He was also a veteran of the civil war, a loyal and brave soldier, and member of Gregg Post No. 95 G. A. R. His wife preceded him to the grave several years ago and the following children survive him, Harry H., Ed, J. C. and Ella of Williamsport; O. W. of Howard; Mrs. A. B. Cowher, of Bellefonte.

The funeral took place on Monday after the arrival of the 1:05 train from Williamsport. Services were held in the Methodist church and the remains taken to Houserville for interment.

Odd Records.

Records are kept with knotted cords in Polynesia. During the early part of the nineteenth century and previously the official taxgatherers on the island of Hawaii, in the Sandwich group, did all their accounts on a rope 2,400 feet long, which was divided into lengths, each corresponding to a district. Loops, knots and feathers tied along the rope served as memoranda for the hogs, pigs and pieces of sandalwood collected from taxpayers.

Language.

"It's wonderful," said the meditative man, "how one small word, insignificant in itself, may induce an endless train of thought, speaking volumes, in fact."

"Yes," replied the caustic man. "Take the word 'but,' for instance, when a woman says, 'Of course, it's none of my business, but.'"—Exchange.

SPECULATORS SAVED!

Judges In the Grand Circuit Races at Columbus, Ohio, Unearth a Job In a 2:20 Pace.

THE GUILTY PARTY PUNISHED

Driver Tom Stuard and the Horse Elderone Suspended for One Year by the Officials.

ANOTHER DRIVER WAS FINED $100

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 2.—The judges at the Grand Circuit races yesterday unearthed a job in the $5,000 stake for 2:20 pacers, and by prompt action saved innocent speculators who had backed the field, a large sum of money. Severe punishment was meted out to the guilty party. Driver Tom Stuard, and the horse, Elderone, was suspended for one year.

The 2.20 pace was the feature of a good card. There were six starters, but Greenline and Elderone were conceded to have the race between them. Greenline won the first heat with ease in 2:09, slow time over the track, which was lightning fast. The second heat was won by Elderone, who paced a beautiful mile in 2:05¼, cutting his record by four seconds.

The original betting has been Greenline $100 and the field $30. Elderone's showing in the second heat produced the desired effect on the odds, which now switched to $30 on Greenline and $50 on the field. The third heat went to Greenline in 2:10¼, Stuard making no effort with Elderone. When the horses came out for the fourth heat the judges ordered Stuard out of the sulky and put Valentine, a local trainer and driver, up behind.

Elderone took the fourth heat in 2:06¼, outpacing Greenline in the stretch. In the fifth heat Elderone went to a break in the first turn and could not be sent to pacing again. He finished behind the flag with a broken hopple, which investigation showed had been cut nearly through before the heat started.

The judges declared all bets off, placed Elderone fourth instead of distanced in the last heat, suspended Stuard and the horse Elderone for one year, and fined Driver Hudson $100 for not trying to win the last heat with Tertimen. Valentine was awarded $200 for driving Elderone, the amount to be taken from the horse's share of the purse. Elderone is the pacer who finished second to Direct Hal in the Chamber of Commerce meet at Detroit and again at Cleveland.

OUR PENNIES.

Over $6,000,000 Turned Out at the Philadelphia Mint.

Pennies are a popular product of the Philadelphia mint since newspapers, slot machines and odd bargain prices created a great demand for the copper piece.

During the fiscal year of the United States Treasury which has just ended 86,479,722 pennies were coined in the Philadelphia mint, nickels were likewise in great demand, and 31,298,779 were turned out.

New York state comes first in the list of penny spenders, receiving almost 10,000,000 during the year. Illinois is next with 7,000,000 Massachusetts with 5,000,000 and Pennsylvania with 4,000,000.

Uncle Sam has 1,100,000,000 cents in coin and 340,000,000 nickels. Somewhere, possibly held as souvenirs, are 119,000,000 big copper pennies. Of the 4,500,000 two-cent pieces issued many years ago, 3,000,000 are still outstanding. Nearly 2,000,000 of the nickel three-cent pieces are unaccounted for.

Nickels and cents wear out rapidly, principally because they are constantly passing from hand to hand. The life of a cent is four or five years. The Treasury turns out 60,000,000 to 90,000,000 a year.

The report of R. R. Freed, coiner of the Philadelphia mint, shows that during the year there were coined from 125,000 pieces of gold $315,162.50, consisting of 88 double eagles, 102 eagles, 133 half eagles and 124,687 quarter eagles,

Of silver the value of $14,679,688.25 was coined into 8,196,800 dollars, 4,370,800 half dollars, 9,693,767 quarters and 18,740,465 dimes.

The total coinage amounted to $17,424,586.92.

HOLES IN THE AIR.

Invisible Pitfalls With Which Airships May Have to Contend.

Some very terrible accidents may be expected to befall aerial navigators should airships ever become sufficiently perfected to make this species of travel at all common owing to the fact, well known to all aeronauts, that there exist in the earth's atmosphere at certain places and under certain conditions veritable holes or pits of vast depth. An airship sailing unwittingly into one of these aerial craters would sink with far more certainty and far greater swiftness than would a leaden ship of the same size and shape in an ocean of water.

Accidents of this nature have actually happened to aeronauts in the past, but of course the ordinary balloon is not nearly so much affected by the sudden descent as an airship would be. Nevertheless, an experience of the kind is sufficiently disconcerting even to the stoutest hearts and strongest nerves.

M. Tissandier, ballooning with two friends above the town of Vincennes, some years ago, happened on one of these invisible air holes, which proved to be over a mile in depth, the balloon falling that distance with such incredible rapidity that the earth appeared to be rushing up to meet them with the speed of an express train, and the bags of ballast thrown out by the alarmed travelers fell not downward, as might have been expected, but upward. Luckily a denser stratum of air, answering to the bottom of the pit in question, was encountered when they were a few hundred feet from the ground, and the downward rush of the balloon was checked as if by contact with a pneumatic cushion.—Pearson's Weekly.

Man's Greatest Enemy.

"Fatigue is one of the greatest enemies of the human race," says a writer in Ainslee's. "Modern physiology shows that it is the cause of nearly half and perhaps more of the several hundred catalogued diseases that prey upon man. In our age, with its high pressure, its hot and bitter competition and the unrelenting struggle for survival, its moral and physical ravages are steadily increasing. Cities, in which an ever larger proportion of our people dwell, are biological hothouses and, for some, furnaces, forcing development prematurely and encouraging late hours and excitement and consuming nerve and brain."

Corrected His Error.

With the Germans the absentminded college professor is a stock source of witticisms.

One of these deeply absorbed gentlemen, sitting on a rear seat, thought he knew a person sitting in front and was about to speak to him when, the stranger by chance turning a little, the professor saw that he was mistaken.

Nevertheless, touching him on the shoulder, he remarked politely:

"You will excuse me, but you are not the person I thought you were."—Philadelphia North American.

A MAN AGAINST A NATION.

The Most Curious European War That Ever Was Waged.

The most curious European war ever waged was that which in the sixteenth century, the period of the reformation and the renaissance, was carried on single handed for between five and six years between a bankrupt grocer of Berlin and the elector of Saxony, who was the most powerful German prince of the period. The grocer's name was Hans Kohlhase, and the immediate cause of the quarrel was the arresting of two of his horses in the elector's territory, he being a subject of the elector of Brandenburg. Failing to get redress, he adopted what was then a perfectly legal expedient and declared formal war on the realm of Saxony. The declaration was accepted in due form, and the war began.

The extraordinary part of the story is that the grocer kept the war up for nearly six years practically single handed and even went to the extremity of declaring war on his own sovereign in the meantime before he was caught. He burned farms and even villages, employed mercenaries after the fashion of the times and made himself the terror of the district. He was finally influenced to stop hostilities by Luther, and after he had taken the sacrament from his hands he was betrayed into a further act of hostility by treachery and, being captured, suffered death on the wheel after refusing an act of grace which granted him the painless and honorable death of the sword. The story is perhaps the strangest of all the romances of that romantic age.

He Saw the Joke.

Here is a true story of a curious personality well known to many professional men in London today: He is a Scot, whose business ability is above the average, but everything he does is done with the air of a man constantly wrestling with some problem of the soul. He rarely speaks unless spoken to. He never smiles, and his eyes have a fixed but intense expression. One day he was returning to London with several companions. The whole party were Scotch, but the companions were of genial type. One of them told a humorous tale, over which the rest laughed uproariously. Not so the human problem. He sat in a corner of the railway carriage glowering at his mirthful friends. Half an hour afterward, however, when all were standing at a street corner before separating he took one aside and said solemnly and slowly: "Ye would obsairve that I did na' laugh at yond' story. Well, I saw the joke. Ye might not think it, but I have a keen sense of humor."—London News.

An Impossible Task.

The committee waited upon the successful man.

"Your fame has preceded you," they said as he entered the room. He smiled serenely. "I am rather well known," he admitted modestly.

"You have given names to sleeping cars, new cigars, health foods and games—names that have pleased the public and your patrons?"

The successful man bowed.

"Well," said the spokesman, "we have a new baby at our house, and we have come to you to select a name that will please her parents, sisters and brothers, grandparents, cousins, uncles, aunts and friends of the family and herself later on."

The successful man frowned sternly.

"Sir," he said, "I do not undertake the impossible!"—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Telling the Weather From Mists.

The motion of mists, rapid or slow, was regarded as one of the best methods of foretelling the approach of rain or snow. When there was a mist before the rise of the full moon, if clouds were seen in the west before the sun rose or there was a mist in the fields before sunrise, wet weather was expected. When the mists vanished rapidly and the moon seemed to rise faster than usual, fine weather was sure to gladden the hearts of the merrymakers on the succeeding day. When the winds changed and the clouds flew along on "tail," the farmers predicted a storm.

Railroad Time Folders.

The average person who picks up a railroad time folder does not realize the enormous amount of work which the preparation of such a publication involves.

The big Burlington system, for instance, has a general time folder made up from sixteen different division time tables. The folder contains 2,000 names of towns, gives the schedules of over 500 trains, and whenever there is a change in time 60,000 figures have to be carefully checked and corrected.

No Smoking.

There is one country in the world where it is considered a crime to smoke—Abyssinia. The law forbidding tobacco dates from the year 1642. It was at first merely intended to prevent priests from smoking in the churches, but it was taken too literally, and nowadays even foreigners have to be careful not to be seen smoking.

METAPHOR OF THE SEA.

Terms Associated With the Water That Are Very Expressive.

"Let me put in my oar," said a gentleman as he joined three of his acquaintances in the hotel cafe the other night and took a seat at a table with them.

"That is about the twentieth metaphor of that sort that I have heard tonight," answered one of the others, "and it seems so strange that we should borrow so many of our figures from the sea. I never thought of it before, but it is curious. I have never been closely associated with the water, and I don't believe any of us have, and yet we are using sea terms all of the time. They are wonderfully expressive, too, and I don't know what we would do without them.

"You want to put in 'your oar,' a moment ago some one talked about being 'all adrift,' and I admitted that I was 'at sea.' We talk about our 'weather eye,' being 'spliced,' our 'mainstay' and all that sort of stuff. We know what it is to 'cast an anchor to windward,' to 'back and fill,' to 'steer' through, to be 'taken aback' and to have 'the wind taken out of our sails.'

"We 'spin a yarn,' try 'the other tack,' 'launch' enterprises, get them 'under full sail' and often 'wreck' them. We cry for 'any port in a storm,' 'take in a reef,' get to our 'rope's end,' 'run before the wind' and sometimes 'keel over.' So it goes on until I believe we can talk about almost everything in the language of the sea."—St. Louis Republic.

Choosing a Minister.

The parish kirk of Driechton had been rather unfortunate in its ministers, two of them having gone off in decline within a twelvemonth of their appointment, and now, after hearing a number of candidates for the vacancy, the members were looking forward with keen interest to the meeting at which the election of the new minister was to take place.

"Weel, Marget," asked one female parishioner of another as they foregathered on the road one day, "wha are you gaun to vote for?"

"I'm just thinkin' I'll vote for none o' them. I'm no' muckle o' a judge, an' it'll be the safest plan," was Marget's sagacious reply.

"Toots, woman, if that's the way o't, vote wi' me."

"An' hoo are you gaun to vote?"

"I'm gaun to vote for the man that I think has the soundest lungs an' 'll no' bother us wi' deein' again in a hurry."—Scottish American.

An Odd Dish.

Mix boiled hog's lard and milk with thick gruel. Stir it well together, with fresh cheese, yolks of eggs and brains. Wrap it in a fragrant fig leaf and boil in the gravy of a chicken or a kid. When taken out, remove the leaf and souse it in a potful of boiling honey. The name of this comestible is derived from the fig leaf, but the mixture consists of equal parts of each, but rather more eggs, because this gives it consistency. This appears to have been a popular dish among the Greeks. To us it seems about as nice as an oyster eaten with brown sugar.

Aristophanes mentions a thirum of salt fish and a thirum of fat. In the "Frogs" there is a dismal joke in the form of a reasonable objection made to leaping from a high tower, "I would lose two fig leaves of brain." The word occurs no less than twelve times in the fragments of the comic poets.

Conceded It.

"There's a burglar in the house, Benjamin," said Mrs. Frett, arousing her husband in the dead of the morning. "Hear that?" she continued. "It's surely the sound of a chisel. He's a safe burglar."

"You bet he is," sleepily returned Benjamin, turning over for another nap.—Richmond Dispatch.

Couldn't Improve the Method.

Mrs. Chugwater—I'd be ashamed to sleep in church the way you do.

Mr. Chugwater—I can't help it. It's the only way I know how to sleep.—Chicago Tribune.

Kodol Digests what you Eat
Dyspepsia Cure
People once thought that the only way to cure indigestion was to stop eating. The trouble with such treatment is, that to stop eating is to stop living. KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE has changed the whole method of treating this complaint. It contains all the natural digestive fluids and digests all you eat without aid from the stomach, so you can eat all the good food you want and be cured of your trouble at the same time.
"I have been troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia for several years and often sat down to eat but had to give it up after eating only two bites. I used two bottles of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE and am alright to-day. Can now eat anything I want. W. L. Easton, Audubon, Iowa."
It can't help but do you good
Prepared by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. The $1. bottle contains 2½ times the 50c. size.

A Clear Head for Business.

A head that aches is a bar to business. Most headache medicines offered the public stop, but do not cure the attacks. Ease the pain but do not remove the cause. Do not give resistive power, act as sedatives or blanketing agents, require continued use. Continued loss means loss of effect or increased dose—possibly habit. Contrast this method of treatment with that of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills—A medicine that goes to the root of the trouble—a badly nourished nervous system—removes the cause removes it for good—gives back the power to think, to work, to act, by its unparalleled nerve rebuilding tonic properties. The only sensible, proper way to reach such trouble.

Sunbury.

Miss Jennie Zettlemoyer, of 300 North 4th street, Sunbury, Pa., says: "I have been troubled a long time with nervousness and at times would be so bad that I simply could not rest at night. I also was bothered a great deal with nervous headaches. I got some of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and they did me a world of good. I used two boxes in all and I rested and felt quieter and was not troubled with the headaches. I intend continuing their use and have great confidence in them."

Allegheny St.

Solomon Garrett, of No. 301 Allegheny street, Bellefonte, Pa., says: "I had been feeling very much run down and poorly for a long time. My head ached a great deal and I felt tired all over. I was also bothered with sleeplessness at night. I saw Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills so highly recommended I got a box at Krumrine's drug store and they did me a great deal of good. I felt first rate after using them and have no hesitation in recommending them to others."

JOHN C. MILLER

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

—George Beezer, the liveryman, sold his black team and a saddle horse Tuesday morning to C. F. York' of Warriorsmark, for $700,00.

—Chas. F. Cook has placed us under obligations by presenting us with some fine lead pencils. He thought we needed something to improve our paper.

—The Misses Butts entertained a party of their young friends last Saturday night at their home on Allegheny street. The function, we understand, was styled "A German Tea."

—The Reformed picnic at Hecla Friday was largely attended, the day being bright and cheerful until evening, when the usual daily rain marred to a certain extent the pleasure of the occasion.

—The members of the Lutheran Sunday school and congregation will hold their annual picnic at Hecla Park next Friday. Everybody is invited and a hearty good time is assured all who attend.

—Col. Geo. A. Bayard sports a dandy new Panama hat. Ed. Chambers says it cost 67 dollars, but if it did, he paid pretty near as much as it is worth. It looks well on him however, and is a very handsome head covering.

—We had the pleasure last Saturday of meeting Miss Headley of Altoona, who is visiting the home of Rev. Dr. Shriner. Miss Headley is a charming young lady of the Mountain City, and makes friends of all who have privilege of her acquaintance.

—Washington Loneberger, an aged citizen of Spring township, who lived on top of Nittany mountain, died Monday morning of paralysis in the 80th year of his earthly journey. He leaves a wife and large family of children, some of whom live in the west.

—Mrs. M. M. Hunter died Sunday at her home in Elmira, after a lingering illness of over five years. The deceased will be remembered by her many friends as Miss Laura Tipton, of Howard, Centre county at which place the funeral took place Tuesday.

—Samuel Ostrander a young man living in Bellefonte was taken to Polk, Venango Co., to the institution for the feeble minded. Young Ostrander has become somewhat troublesome for some time but it is to be hoped that treatment at the above named institution may be beneficial to the young man.

—Masons are busily engaged in rebuilding the brown stone steps leading into the First National bank. Owing to the immense amount of money carried in and out of that institution they were gradually being forced from their original position out into the street and detracted from the otherwise handsome appearance of the building.

—The Band Concert at Hecla Friday afternoon and evening, attracted a great number of our young folks to that place. These band concerts afford recreation and enjoyment to a great many who go every Friday, either to hear the music, or indulge in dancing. Unfortunately almost every Friday since the season opened, it has rained, which detracted from the pleasure, and deterred many from going.

—The family of Mr. A. J. Cook who have been visiting for two weeks at Horatio returned home on Saturday evening. During the last week Mr. Cook, representing the Berwin White Coal Mining Company, negotiated and closed a sale of twenty four hundred acres of coal land in Jefferson County, the consideration being $400,000. Messrs. Goodyear and Co. of New York being the purchasers.

—On Saturday night we saw one of the new mail wagons intended for rural mail delivery in this county. It was furnished by McCalmont & Co. The wagon is neat, and compactly built, with pigeon-holes and room for carrying the mail; the side curtains, extending half way down, are white, the body blue and the wheels and running-gear are painted red. On the sides are the letters U. S. M. On the whole it presented a decidedly attractive appearance.

—We had the pleasure Sunday, of listening to an excellent sermon delivered by Rev. Ambrose M. Schmidt in the Reformed church. Dr. Schmidt is a scholarly man, and his utterances gave evidence of deep thought and research. His sermon was short and concise, and delivered in a solemn and impressive manner. The music was a very pleasant feature of the service, a duet by Mrs. Schmidt and Mrs. Tibbens being particularly fine and enjoyable.

—One of the elderly ladies of our town, requested us Sunday, to say something in the paper about throwing banana and melon peals on the side walks. It is a careless habit, and besides making our town look very untidy, it is dangerous to pedestrians. Many persons are seriously injured by stepping on them. We have known of limbs being broken, and others serious injuries occasioned by such things being thrown carelessly on the side walks. It is just as easy to throw them in the street and we hope in the future this will be done.

OUR BOROUGH COUNCIL.

Full Report of Their Monday Night Meeting.

The Borough Council held their regular semi-monthly session Monday evening with President Reynolds in the chair and the following members present: Messrs. Potter, Garrity, Kirk, Whittaker, Mallory and Cunningham.

The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and approved Council proceeded to discuss the business before them.

A communication was received from Supt. Blair, of the Tyrone Division of the P. R. R., in regard to the request from Council that the Railroad company cease from blockading High street with cars. Supt. Blair very courteously replied, promising that in the future they would be more careful in this matter.

Nothing of importance was elicited from the reports of the standing committees except the Finance committee who handed in the Treasurer's report, which was as follows:

Receipts:—

1902-July 22—Borough Order No 5741	$1,000.00
" Aug 4—T. Shaughnessy, fees	8.70
" " 4—Taylor, 99 Duplicate	150.00
	$1,158.70

Disbursements to:—

Bal due Treas. July 21, 1902	$427.51
Boro orders paid	166.69
Water orders "	282.18
	876.38
Bal in Treasury Aug. 4, 1902	$282.32

The Special Water committee reported that the firm which had put in the water wheel at the water works had made a slight mistake in their calculations and asked an extension of time to make it right. Such permission was granted. This committee also reported that the work of building a wall around the reservoir had been delayed somewhat by bad weather.

The ordinances opening up Willowbank and Water streets were then taken up in the above order. The clerk read the ordinance opening up Willowbank street and there being no comments from citizens, the president then called for the ordinance opening up Water street. There were about a dozen property owners from Water street present with their attorneys, called there by this ordinance which threatened to encroach on their property. They were F. H. Thomas, Frank McCoy, Dr. R. G. H. Hayes, W. T. Twitmire, Milton Johnson, J. A. Finkbinder, J. Malcolm Laurie, T. J. Sexton, John Blanchard and J. A. B. Miller. The Council had a plan drawn by the Borough Engineer and had it on exhibition, which showed where the road ran. It follows exactly the lines of the old road and evidently doesn't encroach on the property owners according to the draft shown. The draft seemed satisfactory to most of the property owners present, however, John Blanchard, Esq., representing James Harris and Mrs. Nancy Orbison, gave notice that if Council encroached on his clients' property they would expect damages for same.

The Trustees of the Presbyterian church were not entirely satisfied that the street should be 40 feet in the rear of their property and 30 feet at other points.

T. J. Sexton, Esq., entered a protest on behalf of Mrs. A. M. Mott and W. T. Twitmire.

Dr. Hayes, on behalf of the Presbyterian church, and John C. Miller; on behalf of the Potter estate, also filed protests.

The Council then took up the ordinance opening Willowbank street and it was unanimously adopted.

The ordinance opening Water street then came up and caused considerable discussion. Dr. Kirk was of the opinion that if the property owners objected to the opening of the street, which would be an improvement to their property, and demanded damages he was in favor of leaving the street as it is. Solicitor Fortney was of the opinion that no damages would be, or could be, demanded.

Mr. Cunningham called for the question. The ayes and nays were then taken resulting as follows:

Ayes—Cunningham, Mallory, Potter, Whittaker and Garrity.

Nays—Kirk and Reynolds.

Mr. Cunningham moved, seconded by Dr. Kirk, that the ordinance passed last meeting night making Water street 40 feet wide from one end to the other be laid on the table. Carried.

The report of the Water committee in regard to collecting water tax by meter, fixing the rate, having Superintendent collect taxes, etc., which was held over from last meeting, was then taken up. Mr. Cunningham and Mr. Mallory objected to the plan proposed, they being in favor of the property owner paying the tax by direct taxation.

Dr. Kirk moved that the Water committee's recommendation by adopted. The motion was seconded by Mr. Potter. The ayes and nays were called for, the result being,

Ayes—Potter, Reynolds, Whittaker, Kirk, Garrity, Mallory.

Nays—Cunningham.

The motion therefore carried.

The following bills were approved and ordered paid:

Mrs. Farish's Musicale.

The Musicale given Monday evening by Mrs. Farish at her studio was a delightful entertainment. Unfortunately, however, none but the immediate friends of her pupils were invited to be present, but those who were so fortunate, as to be included among the guests, had a most enjoyable time.

The program did not embrace many numbers, but was prepared with the idea of showing the musical cultivation of those under her training.

Misses. Sarah and Thomazine Potter made their debut. They each have sweet soprano voices and were in perfect tone last night. Miss Clair Nicolls, who is an accomplished pianist, played two selections on that instrument. Frank Curtin made his first appearance before a Bellefonte audience as a solo singer. He has a deep rich baritone voice and surprised his friends in the manner in which it has developed. He will some day be a star in musical circles. Miss Blanche Hays also contributed to the pleasure of the evening. Nothing need be said in praise of her singing, as she is well known as one of the sweetest soprano singers in Bellefonte. Sam. Hart as usual, fulfilled all expectations, a function of this kind would not be complete without Sam's assistance. Mr. John Bullock satisfied his friends that when occasion demands, he can take his place among the vocal musicians. He has a fine full baritone voice, and has it under control. He received many congratulations from those who were there. Mrs. Farish is an up-to-date musical instructor, as was evinced by the music at this entertainment, which was furnished by her own pupils.

First. A committee to prepare By-Laws.

Second. A committee to frame Rules and Regulations.

There being no further business the Board adjourned to be called when the committees are ready to report.

In order that our citizens may fully understand what this institution means for Bellefonte and vicinity, we would state that the charter provides for medical aid and surgical treatment of the sick and infirm poor, without discrimination as to age, race, color or religious belief, in the county of Centre, and especially in the borough of Bellefonte and vicinity. It also provides for the training of women in the duties of nursing.

The above extract from the charter shows that anyone requiring the services of a physician or surgeon will be taken in and cared for.

The men controlling its affairs are our most representative citizens, who will see that every requirement is complied with.

Linn Streets Social Function.

The handsome home of Mrs. Mary A. Johnston on Linn street, was the scene of gayety Tuesday night and the gayety was confined to the gentler sex entirely. No one of the male persuasion being expected. About forty of her lady friends, from the gray and stately dames, down to the blushing vivacious young Miss in her teens, were there enjoying the pleasures of the evening. Mrs. Johnston is entertaining two ladies, Miss Bennet and Mrs. Tanner, of Pittsburg, and the guests were invited as a compliment to them. Of course there was the usual amount of talk, small and large, interspersed with some beautiful singing by Misses Rebecca Rhoads, Blanche Hays and Louise Callaway, which made the time pass delightfully, but alas too quickly. At half past ten o'clock they were invited to the dining room where refreshments were served, which were furnished by Ceader, the caterer. The ladies all wore their best, and every one looked simply charming. Several of those present, were from a distance, visiting friends in town, they contributed by their presence, to the enjoyment of the occasion. At a late hour they separated going to their respective homes to dream of chicken patties, and all the other delicious viands, of which they had partaken.

—Our readers will be glad to know that Fred. Blanchard, Esq., who has been so sorely afflicted with rheumatism for the past six weeks, is gradually recovering, and was able Tuesday to take short walk.

—Have you seen the Central Supply Co.'s new delivery wagon? It's a Jim Dandy.
